

IX. Goe nightly cares,

Altus.

John Dowland

Goe night - ly cares,
False world fare - well

Goe night - ly cares, the e-nem-y to False world fare - well, the e-nem-y to rest,

rest,

For - beare, for - beare a while to vexe my griev - ed sprite,
Now do, now do thy worst, I doe not weigh thyspight:

So long, so long your weight, so long, so long, your weight Free from, free from thy cares, free from, free from thy cares,

I hath lyne u - pon my brest, That loe I live,
I live for e - ver blest, En - joy - ing peace, that loe I live, that loe I live of life be - reav - ed quite,

En - joy - ing peace, En - joy - ing peace, and heaven - ly true de-light.

(1)

O give me time to De - light, whom woes nor draw my wear - y breath, Or let me dye, as I de - sire the sor - rowes shall a - mate nor feares or teares dis - turbe her hap - py death.

state.

Wel - comesweete death, Wel - comesweete death,
And thus I leave, And thus I leave, wel - comesweete death sweet death wel - come, Oh life, no life, A hell,

And thus I leave And thus I leave thy hopes, thy joyes un-true,

Then thus, and thus I bid the world fare - well.
and thus, and thus vaine world a - gaine a - due.